

Mallory Johnson

Mallory's passion for softball ignited during her time at Hononegah High School, where she dominated the field as a catcher for four consecutive years. With 15 years of playing experience, including in the competitive Fury travel league, Mallory's dedication to the sport shone brightly.

Earning a scholarship to Sauk Valley Community College, Mallory showcased her versatile skills as both a catcher and a power slapper. Despite a scholarship setback due to injury, she pursued education, securing an Associates of Science degree from Rock Valley College. Furthering her academic pursuits, she obtained a Middle Level Math Education degree from Northern Illinois University and is currently pursuing a Master in Business Administration with a finance focus at Texas A&M Corpus Christi.

Coaching has become an extension of Mallory's journey, with a second season underway in the Stateline Fury Program, and a previous stint coaching a 14U HCC team. Alongside her coaching, she finds solace in outdoor adventures like hiking, snowmobiling, and side-by-side explorations. A devoted fan of the Bears, White Sox, and Blackhawks, Mallory's sporting enthusiasm knows no bounds.
